

Dear Philippa and Irka,

Thank you very much for your positive response and your editorial work!

I have now uploaded the final revised version of our manuscript, both as a .pdf- and .docx-file. As you encouraged, this version includes an additional sentence on the potential to trace spikes in the atmospheric radiocarbon concentration in order to date driftwood (line 213-216). Please be aware, that a few additional changes of purely technical nature have been made in the text (most of which suggested by R2). I would be happy to supply a document with track-changes to make this transparent. All figures have been modified to improve clarity and readability. These new versions are included in the above documents and separately attached as 300 dpi .jpg-files in a single .zip-archive.

Please let me know if any further changes are necessary.

With kind regards,
Lasse
(on behalf of all authors)