We have taken account of all previous reviews and discussion, and addressed each point in turn, as outlined in each individual response to these reviews and discussion.

In particular we have taken note of the request that we refocus the paper and its overall message, which required a complete rewrite, and the inclusion of several new figures.

This means it is not practicable to include a marked up version of the manuscript with track changes.